This is the file of the man [REDACTED] that I've talked with you about. In addition to what I consider a rather impressive application, I found him extremely likeable and capable. His Ph. D. in Operations Research due next spring, as well as his specialization in resource allocation problems looks good to me. He has accepted a job with some State-sponsored analysis group [REDACTED] whose objectives are applying Systems Analysis techniques to a wide variety of social problems.

On the good chance that his interest in intelligence might ultimately lead him to accept full-time employment with us, I am considering him as a consultant, probably beginning about 1 July. He seemed very interested in our work and in consulting with us. Based on our work load by mid-1969 and intervening events, I will bring this up again about mid-May.
